

The Business Divorce: A Primer on Minority Oppression Rights

April 1, 2013

By: Michael Rich

By C. John DeSimone, III and Michael L. Rich

What do you do if you hold a minority interest in a closely held corporation or limited liability company and the majority is running roughshod over you? What if you and your fellow shareholders are deadlocked and cannot agree on anything concerning the operation of the business? How do you navigate the business divorce?