David has wide ranging bankruptcy and litigation experience. During his time at Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, P.C., David's experience has included representing creditors' committees in complex chapter 11 matters, representing vendors in complex bankruptcy cases, managing litigation matters inside and outside of bankruptcy, and representing the chapter 7 trustee in bankruptcy litigation.

David came to Porzio with experience representing both debtors and creditors in chapter 7, 11 and 13 bankruptcy proceedings along with broad litigation experience. This experience has included but is not limited to representations of individuals, businesses, commercial landlords, third party purchasers at sheriff sale, and secured creditors.

David has experience in managing cases from onset to fruition. He prides himself in providing constant evaluation of a case both at its beginning and as it progresses to help guide clients with an eye towards the ultimate goal and best possible outcome through every step of the process. His process is motivated by the knowledge that every situation is different and often requires creative thinking to obtain the best possible result for a client.

During his time at Rutgers University Newark School of Law, he was a part of the Nationwide Street Law Program where he taught basic aspects of the law to high school students spending two years at Great Falls Academy in Paterson and a half year at Irvington High School.
