By: Crystal Edwards, CELA*

Porzio Bromberg and Newman is thrilled to announce that Wealth Preservation principal Crystal West Edwards, has been named to Profiles in Diversity Journal's 20th annual list of "Women Worth Watching" in leadership!

This award reflects Crystal's dedication and passion as a lawyer, advocate and community educator. Crystal believes in the importance of educating families and community groups on the concepts of "wealth preservation" and "generational wealth", ultimately closing the wealth gap, one family at a time.

Profiles in Diversity Journal highlights and recognizes "dynamic professional women" who are "outstanding examples of leaders" who devote their time and talents, "courage, persistence, commitment, and generosity of spirit" toward influencing change in our workplaces, communities, and world.

Porzio Managing Principal Vito A. Gagliardi, Jr. said, "Anyone who has had the pleasure of meeting and working with Crystal recognizes the passion and excitement she has for what she does. She is a tremendous asset to the firm and continuously devotes her time to providing excellent service to her clients and to the professional development of her colleagues."
