Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, P.C., a multidisciplinary law firm, proudly announces that Tyler A. Pride has joined the firm as Counsel in its Wealth Preservation Group, further strengthening the firm's multidisciplinary trust, estate, and tax capabilities in key markets, including New York.

In his practice, Tyler partners with individuals, families, closely held businesses, and fiduciaries to develop and implement sophisticated trust and estate planning, estate administration, and business succession strategies. He focuses on helping clients preserve generational wealth, plan for transitions, and protect what matters most, with particular experience advising entrepreneurs, business owners, and families navigating complex personal, financial, and tax considerations.

“Tyler's addition is an important step in strengthening our Wealth Preservation capabilities in the New York market,” said Crystal West Edwards, Chair of Porzio's Personal Services Practice Group, which includes the firm's Wealth Preservation and Personal Injury and Medical Malpractice Teams. “His background in complex tax planning, transactional matters, and private client work positions us to better serve New York–based individuals, families, and business owners who require sophisticated, cross-disciplinary planning and long-term wealth strategies.”

His work advising clients on advanced wealth preservation planning places a strong emphasis on tax-efficient structures, long-term family objectives, and thoughtful succession strategies. Drawing on interdisciplinary training in U.S. federal income taxation and insurance structuring, he approaches complex planning matters with both technical precision and a practical, client-focused perspective.

“Porzio's collaborative culture and depth in private client services make it an ideal platform for the type of work I do,” said Tyler Pride. “I'm excited to join a team that values thoughtful planning, long-term relationships, and a holistic approach to helping clients preserve and transition wealth across generations.”

Tyler is known for his ability to translate complex legal and tax concepts into clear, actionable strategies that align with clients' values and goals. His addition reflects Porzio's continued investment in expanding its Wealth Preservation Group and delivering integrated counsel tailored to the evolving needs of high-net-worth clients and business owners.
