PorzioLS Expands NC Life Sciences Presence as a NCBIO Member

August 13, 2015

As a demonstration of continued support for the growing wealth of North Carolina-based life sciences companies, Porzio Life Sciences (PorzioLS) has joined the North Carolina Biosciences Organization (NCBIO), the foremost trade association for the area's life science community.

A statewide nonprofit organization, NCBIO strives to enhance North Carolina's visibility and attractiveness as a location for life science innovation and commercialization.

As a member, PorzioLS joins a global selection of life science companies, institutions, and supporting organizations to form part of the US's third largest state biotechnology cluster.
