Porzio's Class Action and Life Sciences Practices Recognized by the Global Law Experts Awards

June 28, 2016

Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, P.C. (Porzio) has been recognized by Global Law Experts (GLE) in two practice areas, for the 7th Annual Global Law Experts Awards:

- Winner, Readers Choice category: Class Actions Law Firm of the Year in New Jersey, 2016
- Winner: Life Sciences Law Firm of the Year in New Jersey, 2016

The Porzio Class Action Defense Group has years of experience defending class action cases as primary counsel or as the local counsel member of national defense teams. Our extensive history handling federal and state cases enables us to develop key strategies to defeat certification and defend the underlying case while, when appropriate, creatively devising mediation and settlement strategies.

The Porzio Life Sciences Group draws upon our wealth of experience to help life sciences companies navigate the complex and ever-changing compliance landscape. Porzio provides a wide array of compliance and regulatory counseling services to pharmaceutical, medical device, and biotech companies at every stage of development, including: counseling clients on anti-kickback considerations and compliance with industry standards; developing compliance manuals, policies, and standard operating procedures; preparing audits, gap analyses, and risk assessments of companies' compliance policies; and serving as members of promotional review teams, among countless other services.

GLE is an online resource that assists businesses, investors and individuals in locating legal counsel in a variety of practice areas. The Global Law Experts Awards were established in 2010. Over 120,000 recommendations have been received from business leaders, in-house legal counsel, bar associations and others in the legal community. Recommended law firms were judged on client testimonials, key cases, publication and speaking engagement contributions, and the reputation of individual team attorneys.
