NJLJ Ranks Porzio Governmental Affairs No. 3 in Top 10 NJ Lawyer/Lobbyist in 2014

TRENTON, NJ – March 6, 2015 – The lobbying firm of Porzio Governmental Affairs, LLC (“PGA”) is now ranked third in total fee receipts of lobbying firms associated with a law firm, according to the prominent legal weekly newspaper, New Jersey Law Journal (“NJLJ”). NJLJ obtained the revenues of registered lobbyists in New Jersey from the Election Law Enforcement Commission (“ELEC”) report, released on March 5, 2015. The report also names PGA number 12 overall for revenue, compared to all lobbying entities in New Jersey.

PGA reported an increase in revenue over 2013, when it was ranked as the 13th lobbyist firm overall. The report also demonstrates PGA's increased stature among law firm entities, as the firm was one of only two law firm related entities in the top ten to report an increase in revenue year-over-year. Through a varied roster of core clients and a penchant for controversial issues, PGA's clout has grown exponentially.

Founded in 2006, PGA is one of the newer governmental affair entities established by a law firm. PGA is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Porzio, Bromberg & Newman P.C. of Morristown, New Jersey. The team lobbies in numerous areas, including health and human services, technology and telecommunications, the environment and land use, criminal justice, gaming and tourism, agriculture, education and general business strategy.

Established in 1973, ELEC administers those sections of the law which establish a filing obligation on the part of lobbyists and their clients. All campaign organizations are required to file annual contribution and expenditure reports with the Commission.
